National Education Policy (NEP)

'Education' is the powerful tool to bring about social change. Vibrant communities of scholars and well-wishers of society have to come together hold hands, collaborate and share resources to transform entire field of education and thus the society at large as envisaged in National Education Policy 2020. I consider myself fortunate to have this opportunity to discuss, deliberate with my committee members and colleagues of SSJCOP and arrive at guidelines for facilitating formation of clusters of institutions and paving the path to achieve excellence in the area of choice (research or/and teaching) by classification into teaching-intensive and research-intensive universities.
